

We live in an area that is adequately served by standard radio stations. Satellite radio has been a significant enhancement for us. When I travel, my rental car is equipped with satellite radio. Having the availability of local weather and traffic conditions is great. I would also add that it seems to me that private enterprises, like XM satellite radio, would have the right to provide a service that I pay for. Attempts by people like the NAB seem to me to be self serving and not in the best interests of the public.
